Royal Music Is Closing Its Doors Thanks For The Memories

When Royal Music first opened for business in 1993 it became the fourth piano, organ and keyboard store in Toms River. Eventually it became the last home organ store in New Jersey and a large part of New York too!

As with everything, times change, trends change and hobbies change. In 1993 there were video stores all over town and record stores in the mall. They are all gone.

Technics exited the music business in 2004 and it saddened us. Roland ended home organ production in 2016; it challenged us. Kawai shuttered the Lowrey brand last fall and it left us feeling like Sisyphus of Greek mythology, who was forced to roll an immense boulder up a hill only for it to roll down when it nears the top.

After 26 years of serving the home musicians of the Jersey Shore, Royal Music is closing its doors. We are grateful for the love and support we have received over the years from you, our Royal Family.

Royal Music's mission was to sell instruments and teach people how to play and use them. Our comprehensive lesson program allowed us to remain in business after all our competitors closed. Over one thousand local residents have taken a lesson with us and many have continued to enjoy music as a hobby.

Our secret sauce was printed in the first issue of this newsletter (Royal Page

Vol. 1 No. 1 October

1993) ... "Being part of your life is our goal. Most of us feel there is nothing more enjoyable than making music, and sharing that love of music gives us purpose."

Retail operations will wind down over the next couple months. Royal Music will honor all our obligations and warranties.

As our bricks and mortar store winds down please know we will continue to have an online presence at the following internet sites:

Question:

WHY SHOULD YOU UPGRADE YOUR ORGAN NOW?

Every new beginning comes from some other beginning's end.

- "Closing Time" by Semisonic

Answer:

The organ you always dreamed of owning might be in stock and available at a fraction of its original price.

For instance ... a five year old organ that would cost many thousands plus your trade-in may now be available for under a thousand with your trade.

IN ADDITION ... We are still considering trade ins towards upgrades.

BUT ONLY FOR A SHORT WHILE.

NICE USED PIANOS IN STOCK

Royal Music is known for being the best home organ store in the tri state area.

Over the last few months we have gotten some nice pianos traded in. We have used acoustic baby grand, upright and spinet pianos and digital pianos too.

It's impossible to thank everyone who supported us over the years but I would like to thank two people who played a part in our legacy ...

Representing the music industry, Jerry Vincent. Jerry was a mentor, a gentleman, a great musician and treated me like a family member.

And representing our customers, Marion Stanley. Marion supported Royal Music in the early days and she brought her friends. I always told her she was my top "sales girl".

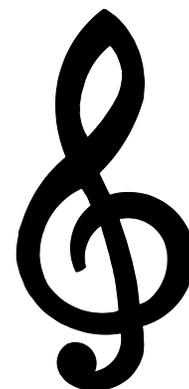

Jerry and Marion passed away years ago, but I feel as though they continue to support Royal Music as Guardian Angels.

Thank you to everyone.
